REFERENCES

Maximilian Kinzler. "Adpositions in Kurdish" in Yaron Matras, Geoffrey Haig, Ergin Öpengin (eds.). Structural and Typological Variation in the Dialects of Kurdish. Cham (CH): Palgrave Macmillan, 2022, p. 291-333.

- 1 Kinzler describes prepositions, postpositions, and circumpositions as well the so-called Absolute Prepositions (i.e., fused (pro)nominal and adpositional elements with additional derivational functions). The description focuses on the form and function of adpositions in the macro-categories, Northern, Central, and Southern Kurdish. Kinzler uses data from the MDKD, supplemented by Southern Kurdish data from Ismail Kamandâr Fattah's book Les dialectes kurdes méridionaux (Leuven: Peeters 2000). Kinzler uses "Core" adpositions as a simplex category from which compound (preposition + nominal) adposition and absolute prepositions are derived. A notable contribution of this article is the inclusion of a section on loan prepositions often neglected in the discussion of the Kurdish adpositional system.
